A Day's Sport by a Party of Hunters of Bachelor a Island.

Some Excellent Shouting an Interesting Amount of Which is Given in Millard Lownsdale's Most Readable Style.

One morning of last week the flush of dawn lighted up the faces of a quartette of hunter by the margin of a celebrated canvas-back lake on Bachelor's island. An animated consultation was going on, and "Isr.; the wind too light?" "Where are they workin' most?" "Is this bind as good as that on the point?" were some of the inquiries burriesty made and anawresed. It was a party of old hands at the buriness, whose familiarity with the habits of the royal bird whose delibrate flavor rather that of the

THE NEXT VICTIA FOUND

Was a man hamed Jones, one of the few settlers along the road. He had been shot near his house and his body was partial, yeaten by hogs before it was found. His wire fleeing toward the brush when the attack begun, was shot at by an Indian and her spinal column fractured by the bullet. Fallier, 20 the gry and the poor creature had dragged herself to over but was searches for an I found by the bloody miscreants; one of whom presented his revolver and in spite other prayer, shot hor again, the second builet passing through her arm. She fell senseless, and the Indians doubtless imagining her dead, havily left. She recovered her somes late in the day and being found was taken to Tuff's place near the river, and died, for she lived a day only. O. P. Robbins, Jones's parimer, happened to be awar from home at the time bunting the cows. He saw the house on fire and heard the yelling of the Indians, and surmaining the trouble went to Tuff's place for assistance. The Indians had been 1-160re him, however, and had fired at the house and wounded Mirs Tuff, who re lovered.

Trooping in disorder along the road, the savages next attacked two men who year transporting provisions to the mines. Killing them both, they took the horses from the grayon and it was consumed. In the afternoon they dearmped, leaving the daurations woman mistness of the field and the savier of her own and her daughter's life. As soon as she was assured of their departure, she called her daughter down from the fort and with Let too refuge in the willow copes, and remained there until the attivish of the rolled party, as before said. By them she was removed to a sace of kafety. The ill croism of the Pertian weamon of New England is matched in the account of Mrs. Harris

The relief party went on to Harkness & Two-good's tavern, at Grave creek, inding there some property of about twenty armed men from Odw creek, who had been it satily gathered and it do the some of hostilities by Capt. Jacob S. Ribearson. On the next day they returned to Jankson-ville, as the stranges had quite lisappeared and the whites who fired in exposed localities in taken refuge in strongholds.

I happened that on the morning of the 9th Jucge Deady, who was returning from holding court at Jacksonville, in compart with D. J. W. Drew, setting out early on their morthward journey, took breakfast at the Way care hours, a few hours before the arrival of the murdefous saviges. THE OPERA IN AMERICA

It far of always that his luxuries of lits man is made Lie producers of what endicate generates the necessaries. One of the nauries of modern civilized life we call the open. Imported from their, France and Generally, its Engined about sixty years ago, it was transplanted into Ameri-ca, first by Mrs. Wood and Mess Fried in Horton. followed by the phenomenal success of Seports Gereia, they wards Massus Malbrus. The first two indices suggest English, but latter in Indian. Since hat time America has grown in weath and acquired a large foreign-bern element of population which natural agravitates toward the foreign-schools of much. But og this interonly (wd of which—Adoun frut and months only (wd of which—Adount frut and mother and both of these were children of foreign-born parents. Miss Inc. 138 TRENCH AND CORRESTMAS

[Written for The Sunday Organian.]
"It's new in lie, a confirmided swindle!"
said Mr. Trench, setting down his coffee cup uni sized. "It beggars people. First the Caristmas presents, and then it's New Year's, and then it's Lester, and it's birthdays all the tint! What a way it is to keep a festival! tine! What a way it is to keep alfestival! Sirring up a line coverousness we have, upper ing to our owest nature, as if we could not be glad without reteiving tribute! As for wedding presents, they add a horror to life. What we dings are had enough, but give, itin, leather, linea, silver—perfect ve garity! If we live to be married a hundred years we shall not have any of that."

[Idon't want any of thet, Harry," said

the wife, razing up at him in his tirade out of a pair of limpid gray eyes that just now locked like two tears or two great jewels givering in dew. "I caly want money enxigh for my Christmas presents. A hun-dred dollars will get the whole of them, and I'm sure that's good management when you that of this family."
A hundred dollars!!
Why, a ways spend that.

And at last, the tears pouring down her face, obvious of all she saw, she nurried nome and wert he self into bed with a sick headache. Her car-rings, her nuney, and all bossibility of her Christmasing were gone—for what could she co without a cest, and with all the brothers and atomach her mind rummaged her drawers and wardrobe akelves for things that might be transformed into gifts. A message had come from Harry that he should not dine at home and she nied not sit up for him, but could grend her evening speculating as to whether he was detained at the chul or at a chabragene lunch, or by a yachting or a racing or a theater party. Of cours, she only crief the harder, and Josephine sat sec har head till midnight; and when Mrs. Trench woke in the mo ning and found Harry beside her, she shut her eyes again in a lwinkling, men ning to keep them should he was up and hone. She was far to deep your to have adviting whatever to say to him. And she lid not descend to the breakfast tab e till she thought he was well out of the romacement. Mr. Trench, sat there with his storming on paper in the sain in a wing the course.

To her amazement Mr. Trench sat there with his norming paper, in the sun, having reakfasted, but wishing apparently for the privilege of another our of coffee with her. "Do you suppose I didn't be you pen your eye and shut it?" he cried quite gayly. "I never knew how briggst your eyes, were be one. That was really conclide a dash. But Josephine had not gone cut; and it was only the work of a moment, but the dreadfully hard work of a moment, but color like a poopy, and feel her voice samewhere in the dopt's among the lower fones of a frombone, and then in clear, trazen tones to say: "Josephine, what, and never on any account to say a wird about it to any one!" In the delighted Josephine hastened cololey; and Mrs. Trench crept down stairs with two bright points; ittering in her cars under the half larap, and her checks rosicr than ever. But as she stood there at the new 1-post, if she had dured to raise her cres, it world have strick har that anything like the way in which Mr. Trench starried back and looked aghast and struct his hand on his treast pocket us it to rake sore that his hear; was locating under it, she had never seen off the stage. But he commanded himself immeliately, al hought a once the lock of mazernent and of puzze ed wonder. "That's right," he said. "And now you've yielded your point, I'll be fair and yiell mino. You needn'; wear them if you don't want 'o. No, no, now, I'll it sist upon it. Take the mout, my dear I wor't have you mortify your pretty vanity by not being in the fashion." It wasn't had, she khew in her guilty little soul, but she hated to wear her servan; girl's mock farry, and she knew that every woman in the audience would know the sham at a gane;. It her desperation she had were free that to the encounter with her has land's wra hand contempt—but now—she t sait ted. And then came the tinklung of the car bell. They ran hurriedly out of tha door and down the steps and were in the cars, and there was mys. Courtey de Spenser going to the opera, too. Eeford Mrs. Trepch knew it those ear-ings, tabe hateful bits of glass and bens, had been snatched from her ears and wilk skirt, while a pair of gre

Apparently he did not see them; nor had he noticed that the bits of Alaska crystal were larger than her own ear-rings. She was over the trouble for this time—but what was she to do on the next. At last in the midst of the light and dresses and flowers and music she forgot her sorrews and abandoned herself to the reneral glory and ineffable pleasure of the opera.

Mr. Trench was very quiet all through the opera; and on the way home he appeared to be in deep thought. Two or three times he looked at his wife win that puzzled air; but he was very tender and gentle with her, for him, like one who would invite confidence, in the few shoulders that they sat in the little drawing noom before going up stars; and the next morning as he went to business he kissed her and asked her if shi were sore she lived him and nobody else, in spite of his tempers. "Why, who else should I ove?" laughed Mrs. Trench, heedless of grammar. laughed Mrs. Tremch, headless of grammar. "I don't know another man in the work to speak freely with, except your brothers and ry sisters husbands; and I'm sure I don't live them!"

"Then will you tell me way you wanted to give them Christmas presents to the extant of getting angry with your husband about it?"

"Because I always have, and they always have, and I like things to go on the way they we been going on, and don't want to mar the harmony and put an end to our eld present ways, and they I give us some tring, they always have, and they always have come over here, every one of them, to treathers to come over here, every one of them, to treathers to refer mand—instrument them so think we're men, and—wall, said Mr Trench, "why didn't you say so, instead of sloving me up he other day? Enve you ever seen a portrait of Po!, taken in his earlier years of authorship? I have. It represents him as he appeared before the shadow of the Raven h at fallen across the troubled de pot his spirit, and Nemesis, as with a fier? lash had marred the clear, ideal beaut; of his inely moded features. It is whelly different from the face that he turned upon the world; wen he had at last looked into the black above of develac, and made his covenant will the slein messe ager of treus.

Somehow I always imag ined that there was a string resasiblance in the facel outlines and expression of my friend falle? Inkney to this early portrait of Foe. He, too, had the look of one who had seen his linage in Cas alta and boroe thence, wandering carthward, from left Panassay, the fateful of it of sing, the high brid wand full temples, the clear-cut refued features of the lower face, with the reception of a few fortile cards, rung out spentaneously in the bloss my vale of youth, he had remained a "mute inglorlous Milton," but sheet was a reason for it which, in the course of the prosessed the quick fancy and glowing imagination, the limple egirit that incroves at once the emerald of carts and the zaries of heaven, the imple egirit that metrors at once the emerald of carts and the zaries of heaven, the cestacy and exaltation, the wait sense. This he possessed the quick fancy and glowing imagination, the limple egirit that metrors at once the emerald of carts and the zaries of heaven, the cestacy and exaltation, the written heart, I sincerely belleve; and it was only the upique and nearly falls deployed, the history of which I am about to relate, that scale, his gifts with slence.

TRESPASSES.

In opening out his week, I fear I shall begin by trespassing spoulds functions of the goule-run who does up the anousements for the read-ers of the SURMAN ORESONIAN. I dropped in to see of the Sinhar Chassonan. I dropped in the bear the "Mikado" on Tuesday night, but did not wait long enough to see his sarete highness, but I was quite long enough to hear the prompter who had a very long part that night, and made the most of it. He was in splendid voice, too, and could be heart all over the house, but I am and come to end and the control of the control of the control of the piece. This I am glad to bear, for there were one or two in the cast who were not only "dead leeter perfect" but also infused or usider ale strong at log into their respective roles. Mr. Gi more, as the patrician fooh Babl was very paintaking and caracst in his acting, but just the least tritle to declamative. Mr. Pease makes ut for weak singing, by tye. Mr. Pease makes up for weak singing by some neat acting; and as for Billy Wallace, he beened as if he had lust some in from sawing five or six course of wood. Miss Wallace pleases me, indeed, agreeably disappoints me. Like our other home muste prima donna, Mrs. Coursen, six has a light voice, but also, like her, she is careful to sing nicely within its compass; but she is the best amateur actress; at least in light parts, that has 1st come out upon the Portland boards. Takes all in every movement not preserving all the attributes of girlish he Portland beards. Giace'al in every movement and preserving all the attributes of girlish unocence in everything she c'indertakes. Aud af Kadisha, what shall we say? That Mrs. McCraken acted at e part superbly, goes without saying. She always wis a better actress than ber, more repowned sixer, Annie Pixley, and ivery once in dwy file we could detect a ring of the old voice that has sure and ten years of retirement. They are going to give the "Mikado" again on Monday night and I hope I shall be letter pleased with it. So fir as I could hear, there was not a catching air in it like the dovelong in "Princess de Trebitones," or the balony duet in "Princess de Trebitones," or the balony duet in "Princess de Trebitones," or the balony duet in "Prince Methusalem." not is there my of the rollicking humor which pervales

The "Mikady" is just now he craze because it is new. A year hence it will not draw a paper house. It has not the or need of the "Pirates," house. It has not the or nedy of the "Pirates," the satire of "Bille Taylor," nor the genuine lea-song fascination of "Pinafora." It will never wear with any sing opens as the "Princesse de Treibrande" or "crichole," to say nothing of such lease se "Les Cloches de Cornerijle" or "dirotle" and against such ognedles as "Olivette" and the 'Miscotte," it has no possible show. Bit as served a purpose, however, it has shown that we have some good thienther; but that was established before. We had a grand "Pinafore." having tut Kirross, who is spon my sont, when it hard the Castilo trippe sing "Hail Poetry," it is ander than beside, the rendition of he same chorus by our monteurs. Again, it its?, we had the "thines of Nor hand," since entirely by anateurs, and it was never done here so well with the sound of the State Heroes" as they did! They spoiled the plece for anybody else for some time to rome; and even clover attrees that Jearne Winston is, she never bleased the Portinders with hat "Germache" as hid the tin, little figure and nervous toice of our little Oregon rothe, Amie triffin. The "Sikado" as then a clevar projection on the whole, but we have had as good before. Perhaps we have had no commulate equal to Will Wallace, and no principal fair singer who could act with his sister; but wide from that we have he considerable that was better than anything in the "Mikado." They have hed no such hade singers as either Lownedde or peor Jo w Van Beurden, and in seven cases out of ten it is singing that makes the opera.

And from the open I naturally drift into a little review of the late lamented Orchestral union. It pained me to see how tamely that institution didd of a about three weeks ago, and all for the want of a lattle amange mont. But I suppose it less like all other awateur associations and had to die for the want of discipline. Frefacing the case with the time-worn alarge that whatever is everybody's besiness is no-body's business; it can easily be seen how-bard it is to enforce; i uncoul attendance and devout study upon parties receiving no salary for their pains. Kingose drew out of it take his place in the Casino lordestra, caying Simon Harris to fill his place. If the latter gentleman were better known be weald be more deserved; appre-

I hated to see it go, for it had laught our poo-ple a greatideal of the 'masters' music and had familiarized rude in also with the gems be-questhed to us ty Ms. delsso an, Mozart, Handat, Hayon, Bellinia, Schuburt, tilnet, Weber and Spontial. But the thing was organized the hayon, Ballini. Schuburt, Glack, Weber and Spothin. Bit the third was organized two much on a society bas shad was too exclusive in its outset. It contemplated no recognition of the fact that half the women in the flours had began life by washing their own, clothes and that note of the men in the audience had worn a glood many more conclude boots than they had of steel-pen costs. And they atways kept theigallery costed where they performed at the New Market theater, its as if the poor mails hall-dollar was not as treful as the rich mails hall-dollar was not as treful as the rich mails hall-dollar was not as treful as the rich mails hall-dollar was not as treful as the rich mails halled news, and ill-behaved men, and that halles news go up there. This is took, but me more who eat peanuts and stamp their feet and whistleshe first their hars of Cangris "Warriorja Joy," when the curtain is one due, are not the knot of people to pay a conto thear classical maste. We have a large close to the archest and the curtain is over due, are not backed of neople to pay a conto thear classical maste. We have a large close to the rich was not regrants or the orthand, it was not proposed in middle and while they are not proposed to make these incers a half-dress affair, which is premature in any new state or city like this, become and the for a ticket, don't always the like does ng in court attire for the systy of two mores' amusement. It was prem true in a fronter city like this, propled in sity by men of Ploneer origin.

An attempt will be rised on Tuesday evening An a tempt $\hat{\pi}$ ill he reads on Tuesday evening

An attempt will be rade on Tuesday evening to give a performance of the "Mikado" for the alleged benefit of Mis Bells Dullois. The investigations made by the Prussian Five-damp commission to be certain it is causes of explosions in mines show among other things that many explosions attributed to firedamp, or outbursts of gas, are really due to the fine coal dust in mines. It approars that all kinds of dust are canable of explosing violently when ignited by such means as an istactic spact, and that he explosion extends much further with coal dust that with firedamp. CURRENCY AND POPULATION.

Beplying to Edward Atkinson's recently publiabet essay on the silveriquestion, in which he argues in elaborate mathematical form that the work's supily of go of for each heal of its population has not diminished since 1849, and that therefore the value of the metal cannot be regarded as having increased, the New York Sun gation as writing interacts, but the resto of currency to proposition are levivious, for the reason that the ratio has no practical bearing. The exchange able value of money like that of every other chumodity, a governed by demand and supply and these lactors vary, not with population, but with production and communities. Now, at statisticians agree that for the last few years the production of gold has been duminising within that of all other commodities has been consumption of gold for our poses of art and laxing has so increasing in addition, the consumption of gold for our poses of art and laxing has so increased that the amount available for currency purposes, relatively to the increased. gold for pur poses of art and laxing has so increased that the amo not available for or rener purposes, relatively to the increased #squirements cause to be increased ownercial transactions, has been still further reduced. Hence the great an tombining fall in prices, as measured by gold, and hence the stagnation of enterpile everywhere complained of.

Of course, to an observer of this phenomenon who keeps is swind fixed on gold, other things will appear to change in value, just as to a man in a nowing rai road car who fixes his eyes on the car'the est tion platform will seem to be gliding away from him. The only way to determ to the truth is to take a bread acreey of the whole field, and such a survey demonstrate; conclusively, as we think, that gold has rison. This tica, we know, is not accepted by bankers and bondho-ders and creditors generally, and it is not to be expected that it should be. They want to make the most they can just of the changed conclition of things, and they report the imputation that they are getting more than they justly should gat. If help debtors take the opposite view, and this is fiver question.

A Sa eçue 1.

The fa al rapidity with which slight Co. ds at d Coughs frequently develop late the gravest maderes of the throat and lange is a consideration which should impel every pracent person to keep at hund, as a heusehold remedy, a bothly of AYEPS CHEERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing ets gives such atmosfacter of the dworks so sure a cure in all affect as of this class. That entirent physician Prof. F. Sweetzer, of the Malan Medical School, Brunawick, Me., says:—
"Medica solence has produced no othermo. "Medica solence has produced no other ano-drae unpersonent so good as AYER'S CHERIEN FROWNER. It is invaliable for discusses of the throat and ings."

The same ppin on is expressed by the well-known Pr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who kays:—

"I have lover found, in thirty-five years of condituous stary and practice of medicality only proporation of to great values ATEB*CER at PRETURAL, for the timent of diseases of the chroot and singst. It not only break up to dear duried severe coughs, but is more effect when anything leaves coughs, but is more effect when anything else in relating even the most seede as bromodifial and pulmentary affection."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new c signat for popular confi Is not a new c straint for popular condidence, but a medicine which is to-dry saving the lives of the third generation who have come not biring since it was in a other of the inpublic.

There is not a lousehold in which this have come is lousehold in which this have come the troduced where its use has ever been abundanced with a strain of the control of the lives a susceptible of source, who has not been made well by it.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORIAL has, in numberless im ances, curyed obstimite in numberiess in sauces, curved obstimate cases of chronic Bronchilis, La raygitis, and even neute Rueumonia, and is saved many patients in the earlier stages of Palmonary Consumption—medicine that only requires to be taken and is small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is moded in every house where there are children, at there is nothing as good; as AVER'S CHERKY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup in Whooping Cough. These are all pin facts, which can be verified by arrhody, and should be remembered by everybody.

THE ARREST OF CALCH PRATT.

SAN FANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Associated Press
Yokohama advices give particulars of the arrest of talvin Pratt, the forger who secured about $1,000 from the Pactice hank for San Francisca, and who is wanted in Leover for a similar offerse. Le was arrested as soon as he placed for badror at Yokohama. He was readily identified from the description forwarded by Chief of Polics Crowley of San Francisco. The cay after his capture he was examined before the Jananese public prosecutor, out refused to ansayer any questions, except to say that his name was Philip'S. Chelwynd, now thetanding that he traveled under the name of John Moras. In a band valles which he carnod sahore was found
